

OLD SOLDIERS HOLD REUNION

Boys In Grey Unveil Statue To Late President Of Confederacy In Richmond.

CEREMONIES HELD THIS AFTERNOON

All The Old Soldiers Gather For One Last Grand Rally Before The Final Roll Call And Blowing Of Taps.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Richmond, Va., June 3.—This was the closing and crowning day of the most successful reunion ever held by the Confederate veterans—the day of the big parade, followed by the unveiling of the Jefferson Davis monument. The day was a holiday in Richmond—public buildings and stores closing at noon for the remainder of the day. Thousands of visitors, coming for the sole purpose of seeing the old soldiers, were added to the multitude already on the streets.

The start of the parade was made shortly before noon. General Stith Bolling, marshal of the day, and staff, preceded by mounted police to clear the way, led the procession. The route led through Ninth, Grace, Fifth and Franklin streets, passing in review at the Davis monument. The line of march was a packed mass of humanity. The crowd was far and away the largest that the ancient capital of the Confederacy has ever entertained. Windows were bright with the faces of women and girls, with waving handkerchiefs and flags; the sidewalks were almost impassable by reason of the congestion.

With their blood stirring to the same old air which bade them do and die for their cause in the '60's, the veterans marched through the streets, the object of a wildly cheering throng's enthusiasm. At the head of the procession rode Gen. Stephen D. Lee and his staff. The erect figure, the alert eyes, and the short white beard of the commander-in-chief were well known to most of the spectators and he was greeted with cheers all along the line. The distinguished guests rode in carriages, and then came the veterans, arranged according to departments, including Texas, Tennessee, Trans-Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Pacific division, Northwest division and Virginia.

The Jefferson Davis statue occupies a commanding site within view of the monument to the great general of the Confederacy, Robert E. Lee. About the statue was assembled a vast concourse of people anxious to pay honor to the memory of the President of the Confederate states on this, the twenty-ninth anniversary of his birth. Gen. Stephen D. Lee presided on the speaker's stand and the order of exercises was as follows: Invocation by the Rev. Dr. J. William Jones, chaplain-general; addresses by Governor Claude A. Swanson, Mayor Carlton McCarthy, and General Clement A. Evans of Atlanta, Ga., the orator of the day; unveiling of statue by Mrs. J. A. Hays of California, daughter of President Davis, assisted by her sons; placing of garlands by Mrs. Webb and Miss Hays, granddaughters of President Davis; placing of tributes by Misses Hodgson, Moore and White; address of welcome by Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, chairman of the central committee of the Jefferson Davis Monument association; response by Mrs. William J. Behan, president of the Southern Confederate Memorial association. Report of Jefferson Davis Monument association by Mrs. George S. Holmes, president; response by Mrs. Lizzie George Henderson, president-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The exercises closed with music and the placing of garlands about the bronze figure. These wreaths and other floral tributes, many of them of the most expensive and elaborate character, were sent by the various states of the south, by chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and by individuals.

Tonight Richmond will bid good-bye to thousands of her visitors. The percentage of veterans leaving today was comparatively small. For the most part they desired to remain till taps had been sounded in the camp, and they wished particularly to have a part in today's memorable tribute to the memory of the only President of the Confederacy. Tonight and early tomorrow morning will see a general exodus of the fatigued but satisfied veterans and their friends. Hundreds of them have arranged to go to Jamestown to put in a few days viewing the sights of the exposition before scattering to their homes throughout the south.

7,000 INDEPENDENT PHONE COMPANIES MAY BE UNITED

Thirty States And Various Provinces Of Canada Will Be Represented At Big Meeting of Managers In Chicago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, June 3.—Development of a plan to cement 7,000 telephone companies of the United States and Canada into one gigantic organization is expected to follow the gathering here tomorrow of 1,000 managers and presidents of the interested companies. The convention will be in session three days at the Auditorium hotel. Many delegates have already arrived in the city and it is expected that by tomorrow morning there will be on hand representatives of at least 7,000 companies doing business in thirty or more states and having an aggregate of invested capital amounting to $350,000,000.

Long-distance telephone lines throughout the country, giving unified toll service to more than 3,000,000 users of independent telephones, are contemplated. Ohio is leading the agitation for consolidation, with 300,000 independent telephones in use, Indiana, with 200,000, is second.

Other states having complete organizations are Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, New Hampshire, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Tennessee and Vermont.

Canada is expected to be well represented at the convention. The high points of interest in Canadian affairs center in Ontario, where scores of new companies have been organized. Manitoba voters have obtained power from the government to build a complete long-distance system and sixty municipalities will construct local exchanges. Other plans contemplate the connection of the independent systems of Manitoba and Alberta by long-distance lines through Saskatchewan.

The call for consolidation has come at the close of the most prosperous year in the history of the independent concerns. Starting as a rural departure, the independent telephone growth at first included only the smaller cities. More recently entry has been secured to a number of the larger centers of population.

PREROGATIVES OF RANK.

Why Jed Resigned as Chief of Brambleville Fire Department.

The Brambleville postmaster looked out with a frown from his barred window at the returned traveler who was questioning him: "I can't go out of this pen of mine till the mail's distributed," he said, with resentment.
 "The new rules and regulations don't hardly let a man breathe. What was it you asked me about the fire department?"

"No, Jed isn't chief any more.
 That's all owing to the city folks that come here now and try to run our whole village.

"There was a little spark of a fire down in one of their cottages, and because our fire department didn't get there quite as quick as they expected they 'instituted inquiries'—I'm giving you their own words—and when they found the two ladders had been in Jed's orchard, and that had made a little delay, they rained such a lot of talk that Jed resigned.

"As he said, if the chief of the fire department hasn't got the right to borrow a couple of ladders from the engine house when he needs 'em to pick his fruit, who has?"

"But you can't reason much with these city folks. They're a kind of a high-handed lot."—Youth's Companion.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT RINK

Vast Building Has Been Tastefully Prepared by the Ladies For the Meetings.

The Rink on South River street presented a striking and attractive appearance last evening. The labors of the ladies Saturday afternoon had decked the large auditorium in bunting and flags. Members of the carpenters' union generously erected a platform on the south side of the hall and "bleachers" along the walls.
 "Everyone is willing to help," said a member of the pastors' committee. "I never saw greater responsiveness." Chairs, twelve hundred of them, in semi-circle arrangement, face the speakers' platform. They were filled last night, with here and there an exception, and a few auditors chose standing room in the rear. It was a success. Some of the spectators had a little difficulty in seeing the speakers but Mr. Ullom's tactful appeal to holy writ, that a woman's glory is her hair led to general removal of the obstructive millinery triumphs.

After some introductory words by Dr. J. W. Laughlin invocation was offered by Rev. R. W. Vaughan, and later Dr. J. H. Tippet, in a dedicatory prayer devoted the Rink to its new use as a hall of religion. The services last evening were in charge of Rev. Thomas P. Ullom, the associate of Dr. Charles Reign Scoville and superintendent of personal work. It is customary for him to precede Dr.
 Scoville and to make the beginnings of the revival. Dr. Scoville himself spent yesterday at Muncie, Indiana, where a great gathering is in progress which it is difficult for him to leave. He is expected soon, however, in Janesville to take full charge of the movement here. Mr. Ullom speedily made his way to the hearts of the people and his words yesterday, earnest, kindly, pungent, drove the truth home. The choir of the four co-operating churches, Baptist, Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian, were on the platform and their blended voices made an inspiring volume of melody. The music is in charge of Mr. De Loss Smith. He has worked with Dr. Scoville for six years. His clear, strong baritone charmed his hearers and bore the gospel with tenderness and power to their hearts.
 His first solo was a keynote, "Get Right With God." As the words swept through the great hall, all knew that the fundamental truth was spoken. "The 'Glorious Song' so present a feature of revival meetings in recent years, was sung last evening by Mr. E. E. Van Pool also assisted in the service, singing with tenderness and power, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." It was plain that Mr.
 Smith purposes to make the music a large factor in the meetings. His wife, herself a musician of note, presides at the piano.

Mr. Ullom took as his text, 2 Chronicles, 7:14: "If my people that are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways then will I hear from Heaven and will forgive their sins and will heal their land." He thought that willingness to undertake service, to give one's lives outside our particular social sphere, necessary to the progress of religion. The round of the churches in the forenoon had convinced the visitors of the fine character of the congregations of the city. "But," said he,
 "you must not be so good that you are good for nothing." The speaker bore down pretty heavily on pious scamps when he got to the clause of the text, "turn from their wicked ways." If some old debts are not paid during the week it will be because the words of the sermon fell on a concrete sidewalk. He believes that next to unbending integrity the dominant note in religion should be joy. Commendation was given the young lady at a college ball game who greeted a timely hit of her favorite by throwing hat and hat in the air as she exclaimed, "Oh, I'm so glad I was here! Anyway, it would be a good thing to inject more enthusiasm, earnestness, and vivacity in the work of religion. Boys hurry past a graveyard, ecclesiastical or otherwise, but you will always find them where something is going on.
 The going on of something is life.
 In the afternoon Mr. Ullom spoke to a conference of men of the churches at the Presbyterian church. He laid emphasis upon the importance of personal efforts. There ought to be in the meetings an inexpressible element, nothing short of "the power of God."

AGED COUPLE START
FOR THE POOR FARM

"Colonel" and Mrs. Francis Davis
 Moved There, on Saturday Afternoon Last.

Both claiming to be over a hundred years of age, recounting tales of the great ante-bellum days of the south,
 "Colonel" and Mrs. Francis Davis, two old colored people, were removed from their former home at Footville on Saturday to the county poor farm by Superintendent Kenyon. The old couple will not be county charges, as they have forty acres of land which has been transferred to a Foot-ville resident who agreed to care for them until their death. The old couple have reached the stage where constant attention is necessary and it was at their wish they were taken to the county farm, where they will receive the care they need. The old couple have long been familiar figures in Footville and their story of their lives is most interesting. Francis Davis claims to be 110 years old and his wife 107. "Colonel" Davis says he was born in May, 1797, at Chesterfield, South Carolina, and remembers during the war of 1812 she used to collect and return washing for the United States troops when the army was stationed at Charleston, South Carolina, and it was here that she was called twelve years of age. She, like Mr. Francis, was a slave but was not made free until the emancipation proclamation was written by the great war president.

After the granting of her freedom
 she joined the union troops as cook and served in that capacity to the explores of the second Wisconsin cavalry. At the close of the war Truman Kimball, James Daxson and other Janesville men were influential in bringing her to "Wisconsin" and it was here that she became acquainted with Francis Davis. In 1867 they were united in marriage at Broadhead and are now members of the Congregational church of that place.

They lived in Broadhead for a short time and then purchased a farm in the town of Magnolia. Together they worked this property until both had passed the century mark, and came to be among the greatly respected and honored residents of the county.

Both can relate many interesting experiences as slaves in the southland and no truer picture of conditions can be seen than one vision from their descriptions and narratives. Mr. Davis says that the greater part of his career as a slave was pleasant but he vividly remembers of being severely whipped while working on a cotton plantation in Mississippi.

A guest of his master had lost a purse containing a sum of money and accusation fell upon Davis. He asserted that he was innocent of the charge but was stripped, tied to a post and beaten cruelly. He received this intermittent flogging all during one night until the following morning his persecutors believing that he would be forced to confess the theft.
 His innocence as proven the next day when the lost article and contents were found by the owner, where he had placed them.

Mr. Davis' wife, Hattie, was born some time during the year 1800. She has no knowledge of the exact date of her birth but can remember that tives. Mr. Davis says that the greater

Net Receipts.—The net receipts of the lecture Saturday night, were $95.00—pretty good, considering the weather.

Severe Accident.—Ed Carr met with a severe if not fatal accident yesterday morning at Minnesota Junction, by falling between the cars while in motion. His head is badly cut and received severe injuries internally. He was taken to Watertown and properly cared for.

The Lecture of Speaker Colfax.—In spite of the drenching rain that poured incessantly all day on Saturday, there was a large audience present in the evening to listen to the lecture by the popular Speaker of the House of Representatives. Although suffering from severe hoarseness the lecture was delivered in an eloquent and rapid manner that enthralled the delighted audience until its close, never flagging in interest for a single moment, the orator carrying his hearers "across the continent" much quicker and pleasanter than they may ever expect to go. The lecture is descriptive of a journey made by himself and others two years ago, and is certainly the most interesting and thrilling of anything that we have heard from the platform in many a day.

Mr. Colfax leaves behind him many warm friends in Wisconsin who will be glad to see him still more highly honored and trusted by the American people. He lectures this evening at Battle Creek, Mich.

William K. Vanderbilt, the New York capitalist, was born on Staten Island on December 12, 1849, and received most of his schooling in Switzerland, living many years in Geneva. He returned to this country when a young man and entered into active service with the great corporation investments of his family. He was for a long time second vice president of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad, and is still one of this road's directors. He is an ardent sportsman, and is president of the American Horse Exchange and helped to found the famous Metropolitan club of New York city. He spends much of his time abroad, and is devoted to yachting.

WESTERN MINERS TO MEET
ANNUAL CONVENTION SCHEDULED FOR DENVER JUNE 10.
Reports Will Show Large Increase in Membership During Past Year
—Executive Board Meets.
Denver, Col., June 3.—An increase of 10,000 in the membership of the Western Federation of Miners will be shown by the reports to be presented at the annual convention, which will meet in Denver June 10 next. The executive board meets here Monday to audit the accounts and consider other routine matters. In the absence of President Charles H. Moyer, who is in prison in Idaho awaiting trial on the charge of complicity in the murder of former Gov. Frank Steunenberg, C. E. Mahoney, first vice president, will preside. James Kirwan is acting secretary-treasurer in place of William D. Haywood, who is now on trial at Boise for the Steunenberg murder.
About 200 delegates, the largest number in the history of the organization, are expected to attend the convention. The states that will be represented are: California, Colorado, Nevada, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona, South Dakota, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri, Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and Alaska. There will be two or three delegates from Alaska.
"Nearly every member of the federation," said Acting Secretary Kirwan, "has secured an increase of wages during the past year. In addition, an eight-hour day has been established in districts where the ten and 12-hour day was in force. We have had a number of strikes during the year, and were successful in winning all of them."

PUBLIC LANDS CONVENTION

NO POLITICS TO BE INJECTED INTO THE GATHERING.
Intention Is to Urge More Liberal Laws to Aid in Development of Western States.

Denver, Col., June 3.—Gov. Buchtel, who issued the call in accordance with resolutions adopted by the general assembly of Colorado for public lands convention to be held in Denver June 18, 19 and 20, has declared that there shall be no politics injected into the gathering if he can prevent it. When he sent out the call he distinctly and emphatically stated that the purpose of the convention was in no way to antagonize President Roosevelt and his administration with reference to the public land question. The program prepared for the convention by a committee of which United States Senator Teller is chairman, provides for the shaping of a more liberal policy to be submitted to congress for the enactment of laws which will make for the development of the western states by bringing more people to take up the lands to till them.

The American National Stock Growers' association, whose last convention, endorsed the grazing and forestry policies of the administration, will be a factor in the coming convention.

Secretary T. J. Tomlinson, of the association, has been making a canvass by letter of the members of the questions to come before the convention. Some of the questions he put to them were:

"Do you favor some form of government control of the public grazing lands under regulations that will fit the conditions for your district?"

"What arrangements will be best suited to your section, an absolute lease with fencing rights, or a permit to run livestock on the public lands with proper protection?"

"Are you familiar with the system of general grazing of livestock on forest reserves, and do you approve it? If not, what are your objections and what would you suggest?" To 1,000 letters Mr. Tomlinson has received nearly 200 replies and they are favorable to some plan of government control and regulation of all public lands in nine cases out of ten. Most of them want the government leasing system with fencing privileges. Some want grazing permits from the government. Ninety per cent. of them believe that government control will give the little as well as the big stock growers a square deal.

Brains.
Famous brains are of four sorts. The lowest group contains the minds that are stimulated greatly by alcohol, tea and other drugs by impressions derived from the senses; the second group contains the infant prodigies, whose intellectual powers were in middle age; the third group contains the pathological cases usually terminating in insanity; the fourth and highest group is that of true geniuses, whose powers remain unimpaired until old age. This is Hausmann's classification.

Spitzka has come to the conclusion that men eminent in exact sciences, like astronomy and mathematics, have the greatest average brain weight. Next come the men of action, including statesmen and artists, after these come the biologists, geologists and other representatives of the descriptive sciences.

Movements of Flying Fish.
The fish that have solved the problem of M. Santos Dumont are found in the Mediterranean, and in all seas of the tropics. Particularly in the Red Sea it is one of the chief amusements of the passengers of the great steamships to watch the flying fish. One sees them here singly and there in shoals to the number of over a thousand, leaping suddenly from the water, raising themselves into the air and darting like arrows for a long distance, to dive once more into the sea. Sometimes they ricochet along the surface just as flat pebbles do. This is only seen when the water is rough.

WESTERN MINERS TO MEET

ANNUAL CONVENTION SCHEDULED FOR DENVER JUNE 10.
Reports Will Show Large Increase in Membership During Past Year
—Executive Board Meets.

Denver, Col., June 3.—An increase of 10,000 in the membership of the Western Federation of Miners will be shown by the reports to be presented at the annual convention, which will meet in Denver June 10 next. WILL SPEAK IN OKLAHOMA.

Secretaries Taft and Garfield to Outline Their Policies.

Guthrie, Okla., June 3.—Secretary of War Taft and Secretary of the Interior Garfield have promised to visit Oklahoma in August and make public speeches. Gov. Frantz, who has just returned from Washington, says that Secretary Taft told him he would be in Oklahoma in August, and would be pleased to make a speech under the auspices of the Republican party. Secretary Garfield also told Gov. Frantz that he would come to Oklahoma in August and make two non-political speeches, one at Muskogee and one at Oklahoma City, and that he would in these speeches outline the future policy of his department towards the Indian citizenship of the two territories. Secretary Garfield also, it is stated, promised to make a number of speeches in the Republican state campaign.

Striking Seamen Remain Firm.
Paris, June 3.—The striking seamen are displaying extraordinary unanimity of resolution. It is the same tale in every port in France. Not only are ships unable to start owing to desertion by officers and crew, but the men aboard French vessels arriving immediately throw in their lot with the strikers: even though their voyages are incomplete and they are liable to prosecution for so doing. The decision of the government to lend blue jackets at the request of shipowners to replace strikers has proved abortive up to the present. The first vessel on which they embarked, belonging at Marseilles was unable to sail because its officers refused to navigate it. Up to the present few acts of violence have been reported.

Enigmatical Sir Edward.
Sir Edward Elgar, who during his recent visit, led his "Apostles" and "The Kingdom" in New York, and in Pittsburgh, conducted two performances of his "Variations" was asked before leaving about the report that he had criticised adversely the works of American composers. He replied, enigmatically: "I have too many good friends among American composers to care to discuss their work."

It is good business to keep property "tuned up." A coat of Pure White Lead Paint not only makes things look better and gives them a higher selling value, but it makes things wear better and gives them a higher value for long wear.

S.S.S. FORTY YEARS OF CURES

Long experience and thorough testing have proven S. S. S. to be the King of blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics. For nearly half a century S. S. S. has been used in the treatment of blood and skin diseases of every character, and so satisfactory have been the results that it is now the best known and most widely used blood medicine on the market. S. S. S. attracted attention as soon as it was placed on the market by curing promptly those diseases for which it was recommended, and we have so jealously guarded its first good reputation, by keeping it up to its standard in manufacture, that it now has the unequalled and pleasing record of "Forty Years of Cures." For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other diseases due to an impure or poisoned condition of the blood, there is nothing that equals S. S. S. It counteracts and removes the germs and poisons, cleanses the system of all unhealthy matter, cures the trouble permanently, and restores strong, robust health. "Where the blood is weak or anaemic and unable to nourish the system as it should, S. S. S. supplies it with the needed properties, and being a bracing, invigorating tonic it builds up the entire system." It goes to the very bottom of all blood disorders, and in this way reaches deep-seated and inherited cases on which the ordinary sarsaparilla and tonics have little or no effect. Not only is S. S. S. certain in its results, but it is an absolutely safe medicine. It enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that is guaranteed purely vegetable. If you are in need of a blood remedy begin the use of S. S. S., the medicine that has proven its worth by its record of forty years of cures. Book on the blood and any medical advice you wish. No charge for either.

Only a few years ago it was considered good form to encase the sink in wood thereby concealing the trap, making it inaccessible and offering a place for the collection of filth and vermin.
If this condition exists in your household, let us remedy the trouble by installing a "snowy white Standard" Porcelain Enameled Kitchen Sink. Our work is satisfactory and prices right.

THE RUSSIAN OUTLOOK

On account of the intimate financial connection between France and Russia, the shipment of gold from New York to Paris is of more than ordinary significance. Both politically and financially these two countries are linked together in such a way that anything unusual in the course of events in one is bound to be felt in the other. Conditions in Russia are not promising. The Douma is struggling for its life. From within the socialists and the government are conspiring to bring about its downfall. The country is divided against itself, and peace and order are by no means near realizing. If the spirit of revolt persists, it must ultimately tell upon the power of Russia to enter into new obligations, to say nothing about her capacity to meet those already existing.

The relation of Russia to the outer world is through her public debt, her politics, and her commercial business. In all these three respects her influence is so important as to make it necessary to take developments into account. For the past two or three years Russia has been playing a diminishing role in the international grain market; and this is one of the factors in the present advance of cereal prices. Furthermore, the political expansion of Russia has been a most serious burden upon her credit. The effect of her foreign policy of expansion has for years been such as to withdraw men and money from the development of domestic resources. Even the efforts of Count Witte to stimulate domestic industries by a high tariff only helped to postpone the effects of a policy which many have looked upon as likely to react unfavorably upon the country's financial standing.

The public debt of Russia is divided into two main portions, foreign and internal, with about equal proportions for each. At the present time, according to L'Economiste European, the combined debt is $,608,577,000 roubles. Three years ago the debt, according to Fenn's handbook, was 6,629,246,000 roubles, showing that the increase in three years amounted to 1,880,831,000 roubles, or an advance of 30%.

Of course the main increment to this obligation was brought about through the expenses of the Russo-Japanese war, the expenses of famine and other outlays such as are contemplated in the double-tracking of the Trans-Siberian railroad. About half of this debt is held abroad. Of foreign investors France has shown most favor to Russian securities. A French official authority placed the holdings of that country in 1902 at 6,000,000,000 francs. Meanwhile it is not improbable that this has risen to 7,000,000,000 francs at least.

The Russian state budget is one of enormous dimensions. The chief sources are customs duties, the tobacco tax, sugar and stamp duties together with taxes on lands and forests. The combined total of these revenues amounts to more than 2,000,000,000 roubles a year.

For a population of more than 100,000,000 people, the per capita debt is not a large one. Yet the collection of income for interest and redemption funds is by no means an easy one under existing political conditions.

These two items together with the commissions and other requirements of the public debt in 1907 constituted an annual charge of $30,724,000 roubles, showing an increase of 45,010,000 roubles over the requirements of 1906. If the Douma should be dissolved the difficulties of the financial situation would not be diminished. On the contrary they might naturally become serious enough to affect the whole international money market.

Mayor Becker, "The Boy Mayor" of Milwaukee, has been offered fifteen hundred a week to disport himself upon the stage and he really thinks that he would be a hit. Milwaukee sits with bated breath for the decision, which will either free or still hold them bound fast in his clutches.

China has wakened up to the realization of internal war just about the time the rest of the world is preparing for a universal peace. Perhaps before this universal peace comes they will all have to turn in and whiff China into submission to the determination that war shall cease.

Madison is sublimely calm over the protracted session of the legislature. It takes it for granted that it needs the money and so the session is longer than usual for the sole purpose of supplying this want.

The demise of the Chicago Chronicle is to be deplored. It was a good clean newsy sheet that was not afraid to print the news and when it did so there was no tinge of yellow journalism about it.

Roosevelt has again announced he does not want to be named as President again. However, there are still many months before he must officially refuse and he may change his mind.

The Milwaukee Free Press endorses the idea of having a new paper established in Madison. That is enough to blacken the idea and prospects of the proposed sheet.

The interurban bonds for the road between Janesville and Madison are said to have been floated at last. Now the question is, are they going to build the road?

Now that the Chicago Tribune and Chicago Examiner have fallen out and are fighting each other tooth and nail the republic may expect some fun.

Wisconsin won the race with Syracuse and feels so chesty that it begins to say what it will do when it gets down to Poughkeepsie.

Perhaps old Ir Hicks may be right when he gives June as bad a name as May for weather, but it is to be hoped he is mistaken.

The few warm days caused great joy among the farmers and then came the cold, rain, and wind to discourage them.

Janesville does not need to become discouraged; there are circus-circuses coming before the snow flies next fall.

As a state Wisconsin is increasing rapidly. Growing like a weed after a spring shower.

The stories some of these fishermen tell make even old Ananias blush with shame.

The crusade on the "White Slave" traffic in Chicago is waxing hard and furiously.

PRESS COMMENT.

Meré Neighborly Bias.
 Rockford Register-Gazette: Janesville is organizing a drum corps of twenty pieces. Beloit, however, will continue to be the big noise of Rock county.

Society Will Feel Aggrieved.
 Madison Democrat: And Prof. Jim Jeffries refuses to fight Prof. Bill Squires for a purse of $40,000. Thus again is shown the baneful effects of great wealth upon the social life.

Hardly a Temperance Argument.
 Exchange: One of the papers alleges that no dog, no matter how vicious, will bite a man saturated with whisky. That shows good sense on the part of the dog, if not of the man.

Is the President Nonplussed?
 Chicago Tribune: President Roosevelt declines to express any opinion concerning women's hats. This probably is the first time he has failed to rise to the occasion when asked to give an opinion.

An Appalling Threat.
 Exchange: One of the most appalling scientific threats recently made is that the earth will bump into "the intrinsical tail of a disintegrated comet." It sounds awful, but what does it mean?

Calamities That Don't Happen.
 St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Mankind has ceased to expect consistency in anything. A few weeks ago the strawberry crop was ruined. Now there are not enough cars to haul the berries to market.

Spooner Not Lost to View.
 El Paso Herald: If Spooner goes in for politics again, he will play for high stakes, as boss of the white house job. Strange things have happened in national politics that of Spooner succeeding Roosevelt.

Prudent Counsel.
 Catholic Sentinel: In these prosperous times it is well to provide for future days, and every hour wasted and every nickel squandered is just that much robbery of yourself. Don't be a thief, even if you are the victim.

Bryan Sowing Parasites.
 Exchange: George Fred Williams has been visiting Col. Bryan on the farm. He found the colonel too busy to talk politics, his whole time being employed in sowing parasites to cure.

convenient the ravages of the green wheat pest.

No "Heart Interest" Available.
 Baltimore American: Mr. Delmas has gone to San Francisco to defend some of the men indicted in connection with the wholesale graft unearthed in that city. With these clients there will be no question of "angel children" or "Sir Galahads." They are mostly charged with being just plain, practical boobies.

A Real Useful Sealer.
 Fond du Lac Commonwealth: City Sealer of Weights and Measures Weber is to be commended for the aggressive manner in which he is beginning the duties of his office. Already one junk dealer has been brought to time and while he got off cheaply the experience, it is to be hoped, will do him good. Householders who have been selling articles to junk dealers learned some time ago the wisdom of owning scales and selling from their own weights.

Roosevelt is no Copyist.
 Oshkosh Northwestern: At the same time it is a little "strong" for the friends of La Follette to make the claim that President Roosevelt has copied the senator's plan for a physical valuation of the railroads as a basis for rate making, especially as the president has just taken the pains to explain that in his opinion this would not necessarily solve the question of unfair rates, and that his own idea is to give the interstate commerce commission power to make such valuations only when in the judgment of the commission it will aid it in its work of rate regulation.

But.
 Wall Street Journal: But, is the dominant word in the President's Indianapolis speech.

There were 35 "buts" in the address, to say nothing of a large company of "nevertheless," "however," "yet," "though," and other qualifying words. This fact is not the weakness but the strength of the speech.

Never before has the President displayed such an earnest desire to balance every declaration he makes so nicely as to make his thought as clear and precise as possible. His discussion of the railroad problem therefore reveals a higher judicial quality than any of his other official papers. He has sought to present both sides of the situation impartially and thus necessarily required the use of a good many "buts."

Interurban Prospects at Madison.
 Madison Journal: The New York dispatch published in the State Journal Friday evening indicates that the Madison-Janesville interurban enterprise is soon to take tangible form. But there is another line pointing Madison way about which we have heard but little. That is the line from Milwaukee to Madison. Already this line is built to Oconomowoc, thirty-eight miles from Milwaukee, toward Madison, and will be completed at least as far as Watertown this year. The projectors of this line say they intend to build through to Madison, and as they are the people who own the Milwaukee direct railway system, they can undoubtedly secure the funds necessary to build to the Capital city. It is quite certain that out of the many electric lines projected to Madison, at least four or five will be constructed during the next five years.

AWFUL TRAGEDY ON INTERURBAN

YESTERDAY COST WILLIAM MCCREA HIS LIFE.

TROLLEYPOLE BROKE IN TWO

After Repeated Impact with the Iron Arms and Fragment Struck Upturned Face of Conductor.

To believe that things happen by inevitable necessity, that the elements and forces knowingly conspire to bring about such a fate as befell William McCrea yesterday afternoon, is to adopt one's outlook on life to one of the harshest and most hopeless doctrines of paganism. It is far more comforting to accept such combinations of circumstances as resulted in this terrible tragedy, even though their like may not occur again with this generation, as entirely fortuitous, if not to be foreseen and in that sense unavoidable.

The accident occurred while the southbound interurban car which left Janesville with a trailer attached at 2:15 Sunday afternoon was on the down grade just below the sub-station and about four miles from this city. There was a considerable number of passengers aboard, including Attorney Louis Avery, who gives the details of what took place. Charles Snyder, Edward Litts, and others, and Conductor McCrea was on duty on the head car. While under speed of about 45 miles an hour the trolley pole left the wire. The motorman immediately put on the brakes and shifted off the current, but the headway was such that it was impossible to stop within thirty or forty rods.

As the trolley pole began to swing frantically and strike at intervals the iron arms which sustain the wire, Conductor McCrea, who was on the rear platform, leaned out the back window with his face upturned to the sky and made an effort to catch the pole and guide it back to its proper position. Suddenly, as the pole hit another arm it snapped about 3 1/2 feet below the truck wheel and the severed fragment of iron, hurled with terrific velocity and deflected from its ordinary course by the rope, hit the roof of the trailer, glanced off, and struck the conductor on the right side of the head, just in front of the ear and above the cheekbone, breaking this and the jaw-bone and cutting a gash in the throat which opened up one of the large arteries. In horror the passengers saw the young man's limbs give way and the body fall across the platform, the blood streaming from his gaping wounds. Most of the women passengers rushed to the front of the car in confusion but one among them, as the car came to a stop, ran across the fields to the cure sheets for dressing. In the meantime the Messrs. Snyder, Avery, the motorman, and others had collected all the handkerchiefs available and while some ran for water the others made an effort to staunch the flow of blood.

While they were busied in these efforts the conductor of the trailer had adjusted a new trolley pole and it was determined, after a hasty conference, to make for Beloit with all possible speed. At the Riverside telephone station the motorman sent a call to the city for a physician and ambulance, and Dr. Burdette and the vehicle, hurrying to meet the car, were intercepted at a point three blocks north of the Fourth street and Grand avenue intersection.

The unfortunate young man had never recovered consciousness and his labored breathing had ceased and some were convinced that his life had ebbed, as they lifted him gently from the improvised bed in the rear of the car and carried him to the ambulance.

His brother, Harry McCrea, train dispatcher for the North-Western at Chicago, chanced to have spent the day in Janesville and was preparing for the homeward trip when the terrible tidings were conveyed to him, the sister, Miss Jessie McCrea, who is deputy clerk of court, and the mother, Mrs. Nellie McCrea, whose home is in Afton. They were able to reach the hospital, just without emerging from mortal darkness, passed out of this world at half-past nine o'clock.

William McCrea was 22 years of age last month. He was an alert, industrious, and ambitious young man, gifted with a genial, cheery disposition which made him a popular acquaintance with his friends. Every noon his sister met him at the station to exchange a word of greeting, so strong were the homelies now rudely broken. Four weeks ago he entered the employ of the R. & I. Co. as "extra" conductor and he was to have gone out on his first steady run this morning.

The funeral services are to be held at the Afton church at half-past one o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

DECREE OF DIVORCE FOR COLORED WOMAN

Laura Hamlet Steele of Milton Versus Charles Steele of Delavan in Janesville Court.

Laura Hamlet Steele of Milton, Jct., secured in the circuit court here this morning a decree of divorce from Charles Steele of Delavan. The grounds for complaint were drunkenness and cruelty and the defendant did not appear. Mrs. Steele was given the custody of their child, Hamlet Steele, aged 3. Both litigants are colored and three of the witnesses, Mrs. Ed. Pindexter and Mr. and Mrs. William Hamlet, all of Delavan, are of African descent. Mrs. Steele formerly lived at Delavan and is highly respected there. Mrs. Pindexter is a pianist and for a number of seasons traveled with Clayton's jubilee singers.

LUTHERANS MAY BUILD COLLEGE

SYNOD OF NORTHWEST MEETS IN JANESVILLE THIS WEEK.

TO DISCUSS THE LOCATION

Will Probably Establish Institution if Funds Can Be Secured—Sixty Delegates Coming.

Sixty delegates, lay and clerical, representing some thirty-five churches, will gather in Janesville this week for the seventeenth convention of the English Evangelical Lutheran Synod of the Northwest. The sessions which are to be held in St. Peter's church at the corner of South Jackson and Center streets will begin Wednesday evening and last through Sunday. There will be addresses and discussions in the afternoon and evenings and the business meetings will be held during the mornings and in the early portions of the afternoons.

Establishment of College. The question of establishing an English Lutheran college to be supported by the synod of the Northwest or by that and the Chicago synod jointly, will come up. The institution would be connected with the church at Beloit college is with the Congregational society. Lawrence University with Methodist Episcopal or Carroll college at Waukesha with the Presbyterian. Regular collegiate courses would be offered but the prime purpose would be to provide a college for young men intending to enter the Lutheran ministry at Chicago.

Question of Location.

Should the project be carried through the question of location will be considered. It is believed that some city in southern Wisconsin or northern Illinois will be selected, as this is the center of the middle western field. The matter of funds is a big problem and the city offering the largest endowment will probably secure the college.

F. C. COOK HURT IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine Started As He Attempted to Step in and He Was Thrown and Run Over.

F. C. Cook is confined to his bed by painful but not serious injuries he received in an auto accident yesterday. He was out motoring with his wife and it was while driving between Koshkonong station and Milton that the mishap occurred. On reaching the top of a steep hill they came up behind a double team. The occupants of the carriage refused to give Mr. Cook a half of the road and he was compelled to turn onto an extremely rough side of the road and stop his runabout. The engine being killed he stepped out to crank it and the car started before he could regain his seat. He was thrown down and one rear wheel passed over his body. The auto proceeded a short way but the clutch was jammed off and the machine stopped against a fence. Mrs. Cook assisted her husband into the car and they went to Milton where a doctor was consulted. The injuries proved to be one of strains of the muscles and Mr. Cook motored home to Janesville. He will be out of doors again in a few days.

Clapp, former "ad-man" for the Gazette, who has journeyed from Pennsylvania to Texas and back again, holding responsible positions with important newspapers in half a dozen states since leaving here, is to sever his connection with the Danville (Ill.) A MAKER OF HISTORY

"You will excuse my interfering, sir," he said, "but if this case is to remain in my hands at all it is necessary for me to hear all that Sir George Duncombe has to say. The young lady will wait for a moment. This case is difficult enough as it is, what with the jealousy of the French police, who naturally don't want us to find out what they can't. If Sir George Duncombe has any information to give now," the man added with emphasis, "which he withheld a few minutes ago, I think that I ought to hear it from his own lips."

"I agree entirely with what Mr. Lloyd has said," Andrew declared. Duncombe shrugged his shoulders. He looked around him cautiously, but they were in a corner of the entresol, and no one was within hearing distance.

"Very well," he said. "To save you from danger and Miss Poynton from further trouble I am going to break a confidence which has been reposed in me, and to give you the benefit of my own surmises. In the first place, Mr. Lloyd is mistaken in supposing that the French police have been in the least puzzled by this double disappearance. On the contrary, they are perfectly well aware of all the facts of the case and could have produced Miss Poynton or her brother at any moment. They are working not for us, but against us."

"Indeed?" Mr. Lloyd said in a tone of disbelief. "And their object?"

"Here is as much of the truth as I dare tell you," Duncombe said. "Guy Poynton while on the continent became the chance possessor of an important state secret. He was followed to France by spies from that country, who will call it Germany—and, the young lady who awaits you so impatiently is, if not one of them, at least one of their friends. At the Cafe Montmartre he gave his secret away to people who are in some measure allied with the secret service police of France. He was kidnapped by them and induced to remain hidden by a trick. Meanwhile diplomacy makes use of his information, and foreign spies look for him in vain. His sister, when she came to search for him, was simply an inconvenience which these people had not contemplated. She was worked upon by fears concerning her brother's safety to go into hiding. Both have been well cared for, and the report of Guy's death is, I firmly believe, nothing but an attempt to lull the anxieties of the spies who are searching for him. This young woman here may be able to tell you into whose hands he has fallen, but you may take my word for it that she is greater in need of information than you are, and that she is an exceedingly dangerous person for you to discuss the Poyntons with. These are the crude facts. I have only known them a few hours myself, and there is a good deal which I cannot explain. But this I honestly and firmly believe. Neither you nor Mr. Lloyd here can do the slightest good by interfering in this matter. For myself, I am leaving for England tonight."

"Andrew," he said, grasping him by the arm, "I must speak with you alone."

Duncombe, like most honest men, expected to be believed. If he had entertained the slightest doubt about it, he would not have dared to open his mouth. The silence that followed he could understand. No doubt they were as amazed as he had been. But it was a different thing when he saw the expression on Andrew's face as he turned to his companion.

"What do you think of this, Lloyd?" he asked.

"I am afraid, sir," the man answered, "that some of the clever ones have been imposing upon Sir George. It generally turns out so when amateurs tackle a job like this."

Duncombe looked at him in astonishment. "Do you mean to say that you don't believe me?" he exclaimed.

"I wouldn't put it like that, sir," the man answered, with a deprecating smile. "I think you have been misled by those who did not wish you to discover the truth."

Duncombe turned sharply on his heel. "And you, Andrew?"

"I wish to do you justice," Andrew answered coldly, "and I am willing to believe that you have faith yourself in the extraordinary story you have just told us. But, frankly, I think that you have been too credulous."

Duncombe lost his temper. He turned on his heel and walked back into the hotel.

"You can go to the devil your own way," he declared.

CHAPTER XXXI.

SPENCER tried to rise from his sofa, but the effort was too much for him. Pale and thin, with black lines under his eyes and bloodless lips, he seemed scarcely more than the wreck of his former self.

His visitor laid his stick and hat upon the table. Then he bowed once more to Spencer and stood looking at him, leaning slightly against the table.

"I am permitted," he asked gently, "to introduce myself?"

"Quite unnecessary," Spencer answered.

The baron shrugged his shoulders. "You know me?" he asked.

The shadow of a smile flitted across Spencer's face.

"By many names, M. Louis," he answered.

His visitor smiled. Debonair in dress and deportment, there seemed nothing in the air of gentle concern with which he regarded the man whom he had come to visit to inspire mistrust. Yet Spencer cursed the language which had kept him from recovering the revolver which an hour or more before had slipped from underneath his cushion.

"It saves trouble," M. Louis said. "I come to you, M. Spencer, as a friend."

"You alarm me," Spencer murmured. M. Louis shrugged his shoulders.

"You are pleased to be witty," he answered, "but, indeed, I am no such terrible person. It is permitted that I smoke."

"Certainly," Spencer answered. "If you care for wine or liquors, pray ring for my servant. I can assure you that it is not by my own will that you find me so indifferent a host."

"I thank you," M. Louis answered. "I think that we will not ring the bell. It would be a pity to disturb an interview to which I have looked forward with so much pleasure."

"L'affaire Poynton?" Spencer suggested.

"Precisely!"

"You have perhaps come to complete the little affair in which so far you have succeeded so admirably?"

"Pray do not suggest such a thing," M. Louis answered deprecatingly. "For one thing, I should not personally run the risk. And for another, have I not already assured you that I come as a friend?"

"It was then," Spencer answered, "that I began to be frightened."

M. Louis smiled. He drew a gold cigarette case from his pocket and calmly lit a cigarette.

"Since you permit, mon ami," he said. "Good! I speak better when I smoke. You are not so ill, I see, but that you retain that charming sense of humor which your readers have learned so well how to appreciate."

"The dose was scarcely strong enough," Spencer answered, "or perhaps by good fortune I stumbled upon the proper antidote."

"I see that you like plain speaking," M. Louis continued, with a gentle smile. "Permit me to assure you, then, that the dose was quite as strong as we wished. Extremes are sometimes necessary, but we avoid them whenever possible."

"I wonder where it happened," Spencer said reflectively. "I have been on my guard all the time. I have watched my wine and coffee, at the cafe, and I have eaten only in the restaurants that I know."

M. Louis did not seem to think the matter important.

"It was bound to happen," he said. "If you had been like your friends—the English baronet and the last two, who are even more amusing—perhaps it would not have been necessary. But you understand—you were beginning to discover things."

"Yes," Spencer admitted, "I was beginning to get interested."

"Exactly. We were forced to act. I can assure you, M. Spencer, that it was with reluctance. The others of whom I have spoken—Sir George Duncombe, M. Pellam and his spy detective—forgive me that I smile—walk all the time in the palm of our hand. But they remain unharmed. If by any chance they should blunder into the knowledge of things which might cause us annoyance, why, then there would be more invalids in Paris. Indeed, monsieur, we do not seek to abuse our power. My errand to you today is one of mercy."

"You make me ashamed," Spencer said, with a sarcasm which he took no pains to conceal, "of my unworthy suspicions. To proceed."

"You have sent for Sir George Duncombe to come and see you?"

Spencer was silent for a moment. His own servant. It was not possible. "Well?"

"Even you," the baron continued, "have not yet solved the mystery of L'affaire Poynton. But you know more than Sir George. Let me recommend that you do not share your knowledge with him."

"Why not?"

"If you do, Sir George will at once share your indisposition."

"I begin to understand," Spencer said.

"I wish to do you justice," Andrew answered coldly, "and I am willing to believe that you have faith yourself in the extraordinary story you have just told us. But, frankly, I think that you have been too credulous."

"How otherwise? Send Sir George home. You see the delicacy of our position. It is not so much that we fear Sir George Duncombe's interference, but he, again, is followed and watched over by our enemies, who would easily possess themselves of any information which he might gain."

Spencer nodded.

"It is good reasoning," he admitted. "Listen," M. Louis continued. "I speak now on behalf of my friends. You know whom I mean. You have solved the mystery of our existence. We are omnipotent. The police and the secret service police and the government itself are with us. We have license throughout the city. We may do what others may not. For us there is no crime. I kill you now perhaps. The police arrive. I am before the commissioner. I give him the sign—it is L'affaire Poynton. I go free. It is a certain thing."

"Granted," Spencer said. "Proceed with your killing or your argument."

"With the latter, if you please," M. Louis answered. "I do not choose to kill. L'affaire Poynton, then. Harm is not meant to either of these young people. That I assure you upon my honor. In three weeks, or, say, a month, we have finished. They may return to their homes if they will. We have no further interest in them. For those three weeks you must remain as you are—yours and, if you have influence over him, Sir George Duncombe. The other two fools we have no care for. If they blunder into knowledge—well, they must pay. They are not our concern, yours and mine. For you I bring an offer, M. Spencer."

"L'incroyable domination!" Spencer murmured.

M. Louis smiled.

"My gift," he answered, "will not terrify you. You are a journalist. I offer to make the fortune of your paper. You shall be the first to announce an affair of the greatest international importance since the war between Russia and Japan was declared. No! I will go further than that. It is the greatest event since Waterloo."

"L'affaire Poynton strikes so deep?" Spencer remarked.

"So deep," the baron answered. "It is the fools who grope their way into great places. So did the boy Poynton. You, my friend, shall be the one brilliant exception. You shall make yourself the king of journalists, and you shall be quoted down the century as having achieved the greatest journalistic feat of modern days."

Spencer turned his drawn, haggard face toward his visitor. A slight flush of color stained his cheek.

"You fascinate me," he said slowly. "I admit it. You have found the weak spot in my armor. Proceed! For whom do you speak?"

M. Louis abandoned his somewhat lounging attitude. He stood by Spencer's side and, leaning down, whispered in his ear. Spencer's eyes grew bright.

"M. Louis," he said, "you play at a great game."

FOLLY AS IT FLIES

HOW ONE MOTH WAS DRAWN FROM THE BRIGHT LIGHT.

Gay Young Rounder Needed Only to Have His Feet Set in the Right Direction and the Plain Path.

Setmup didn't draw any dividends from bowling alleys, saloons, or theaters; but he was a free spender, and made welcome by all the proprietors of such places.

One day Setmup got moody and sad. His clothes were glossy, and since he couldn't be relied on to do good work because he stayed out late at nights and often came to work with a bad headache, he had not been promoted for 18 months. Further, Setmup was penniless and owed a three weeks' board bill.

Setmup began to think. Thought produced action, and he went to see a wise old uncle who often gave him good advice, and had on one occasion rescued him out of the hands of some relentless loan sharks.

"How now?" said the uncle. "Why so sad?"

"I'm nearly down and out," was the reply. "I can't keep good habits, somehow, and I can't save."

His relation scratched his head and pondered for a few minutes. Then he said, "I like you because you have the elements of a man in you. I'll help you by giving you an inducement to save your money. For every dollar you bring me inside the next two years I'll add half a dollar. It'll cost me some money, but I guess it will be worth it."

Pired by the ambition of making such easy money, Setmup neglected his old haunts at the bowling alleys, the saloons, and the theaters. Inside a month he brought his uncle a few dollars, which the old man promised to put carefully away for him and add the percentage promised. And he kept on bringing his uncle all the money he could spare.

The habit of saving and the virtues it necessitated soon showed itself in his appearance. His clothing was good and well kept. His eyes were bright and healthy. What most pleased him was the fact that he began to be advanced regularly, and before the two years were up he had become assistant to the head of the big department.

At the close of the two years Setmup went to his uncle to draw his money. The sum was so large that he protested the old man had been adding more than he should.

"Are you satisfied?" was the query. "Perfectly," was the reply. "I never expected nearly so much."

"Well, I'll be honest with you. The money just handed to you represents your savings alone, with accrued interest. Later I've met with some reverses, and am unable to add my proportion; but I will later."

"In this world," said the uncle, "habits are the real giant forces for good or evil. I simply helped you to establish one good habit, and lo! like magic, all the rest of the virtues followed in its train. The forming of one good habit and sticking to it often will help a man to make good headway in a manner faster than he could imagine in his wildest dreams."

Happy Solution.

"My dear," said the bridegroom, the day after they had returned from their wedding journey, "I have a suggestion to make that I think will work to our mutual satisfaction and benefit."

"Now, John, darling," said the bride, preparing to weep at the slightest excuse, "remember, I never said I could cook."

"Don't worry; it isn't about your cooking. It is about the letters you write and ask me to mail. It strikes me that we might be happier."

"If I didn't write to anyone? Oh, John, how—"

"Wait until I have finished, my dear. All I want to suggest is that you mail your own letters, so I won't be forever forgetting them, and in return for so doing that I will sew all my buttons on. By doing so it seems to me we will overcome two obstacles to married happiness that have caused trouble since buttons and letters were invented."

And the little bride, having checked her tears, agreed to try the plan.—Judge.

Caught.

The big fish which got away was caught in our reservoir to-day at the National Military home in Ohio. This is the first one on record recaptured.

Our champion angler was fishing for bass and caught a small one, then rebaited his hook with a lively minnow and made another cast, when, in his own words, there was a rush of the big fish for the bait, the quick pull to fasten hook, the broken line and the old-told story repeated—the fish got away with part of the line and float attached. The float indicated the motions and position of the fish as he tried to get rid of the hook, and many anglers and friends of the unfortunate fisherman offered suggestions and helped to recapture the struggling bass, one offering to carry a skiff from an adjoining lake and go out after him. Finally the fish approached the shore near enough to cast a line over him and fasten in the broken line. The crowd on shore awaited the result with excited, eager attention as the fish was brought to net and safely landed. When weighed the indicator pointed to six ounces.—Forest and Stream.

EXPECT TRIAL WILL LAST SIXTY DAYS

HAYWOOD CASE WILL BE LONG DRAWN OUT.

DEFENDANT IS BETTER

Stricken with illness Saturday, He Appears to Have Recovered—State May Have Important Evidence in Reserve.

Boise, Idaho, June 3.—The work of securing a jury in the case of William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of former Gov. Steunenberg, will be resumed Monday morning, unless the prisoner has a release. Haywood is himself again. Although a little drawn and pale as a result of the medicine and the opiates administered to relieve him from the acute pain which he suffered Saturday he appears to be in his normal condition.

Judge Fremont Wood has stated that he is determined a jury shall be secured Monday if possible. Forty-four talesmen remain of the venire of 61 summoned last week. Only one more, peremptory challenge can be exercised and this lies with the defense, the prosecution having exhausted its entire peremptory challenges on Friday. This leaves two more to qualify if the defense should see fit to exercise its last challenge. That they will do so is admitted by counsel, but it is not expected that there will be much difficulty in qualifying the two men out of the talesmen yet to be examined. Should this not be done within the regular hours, it is quite probable that Judge Wood will hold a night session.

With a jury secured, the case for the state will be opened by James H. Hawley, leading counsel, on Tuesday morning. This, the first gun in the real engagement, will be a lengthy recital of the position taken by the state of Idaho in the effort to prove that Haywood, together with Moyer, Pettibone, Simpkins and Orchard, were responsible for the death of Frank Steunenberg on the night of December 30, 1905.

Outlining of Prosecution's Case. This opening address to the jury will be the first official outlining of the case the prosecution hopes to prove. Ever since the arrest of the three men, Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, speculation has been rife and innumerable statements, more or less well-founded in fact, have been published.

Intimation of what Orchard has stated in his confession has come from one source and another, and from time to time in the last year, but it may be stated positively that very little is known of the contents of the confession which will figure, it is stated as the most sensational feature of the case against Haywood, the first of the prisoners charged with the murder to be placed upon trial.

Not Relying Alone on Orchard.

It is believed that the state has in reserve much to corroborate Orchard's testimony. Orchard will be a witness, but counsel for the state does not propose to rely upon his evidence. Every point bearing on Haywood's connection with the actual murder of Steunenberg must, the prosecution openly state, be corroborated before they can hope to prove their case.

On the other hand, the defense of Haywood has been as busy at work as the prosecution. Other scores of detectives have followed every clue and every intimation of what the Pinkerton agency was doing. A large amount of money, estimated to be as much as $500,000, has been subscribed by the members of the Western Federation of Miners, an organization with 75,000 members, and by other labor organizations throughout the country. The propaganda in behalf of the prisoners, Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, has been widespread and active and much sympathy has been aroused. The best legal counsel has been secured in their behalf and six lawyers are daily in court actively conducting the case, while two or three others are in reserve.

Opening for the Defense.

E. F. Richardson, a prominent attorney of Denver, will open for the defense, but it is understood that it has been agreed that the case for the defense will not be shown until after the case for the prosecution is all in. It may therefore be several weeks before Mr. Richardson delivers his opening address. It is conceded that the introduction of evidence for the state, and especially the testimony of Orchard, will be contested at every point. This will mean probably that the state will not be able to conclude under three weeks or possibly 30 days. The case for the defense will take equally as long. It may therefore be estimated that the case will last 60 days after the opening. Sixteen days of actual work have been spent in the effort to secure a jury. Counting the adjournments the case has now been going on one month.

Snow in New York June 2.

New York, June 3.—Snow fell in New York on the first Sunday in the summer month of June. The flakes were not of the sort that make sleighing and snow balls, nor did they fall as snow, all the way to the pavements, but coming from a colder strata, they swirled about the tops of the skyscrapers, and before dissolving added a midwinter touch to the most remarkable June 2 that New Yorkers have known.

SERVICES IN HONOR OF MRS. MCKINLEY

REV. E. C. DUXTON DELIVERS EULOGY OF DEAD WOMAN.

HER KEEN JUDGMENT

Superior in Knowledge of Men and Measures—Phrase Often Used Well Illustrates Her Character and Loyalty.

Canton, O., June 3.—The services at the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday were a memorial in honor of Mrs. McKinley, who was a member of that church. Rev. E. C. Duxton, D. D., who conducted the funeral services of Mrs. McKinley Wednesday, delivered the address. The McKinley pew, which until recently had been draped since the death of President McKinley, was reserved for the immediate relatives of Mrs. McKinley. The church edifice was crowded. A draped portrait of Mrs. McKinley was placed in front of the rostrum. American flags, carnations and potted plants were the decorations. The hymns included "Lead Kindly Light," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and other numbers which were favorites of President and Mrs. McKinley.

Speaking of Mrs. McKinley's keen judgment of men and conditions, Rev. Duxton said:

"Her knowledge of men and measures was superior, and often the president deferred to her judgment. But her confidence in his abilities and her faith in the integrity of his character were remarkable. She felt that he deserved success and the generous people would not withhold it when it was well earned. A favorite expression of hers during the many political campaigns was 'he ought to succeed and therefore will succeed.'"

Phrase That Told Much.

"One short phrase used perhaps 100 times daily, after the Buffalo tragedy, illustrates the character of Mrs. McKinley better than any words I may be able to choose. The words 'my precious' contained the epitome of all the loyalty, fidelity and constant love which a woman can ever render to man. Who that ever heard can forget the manner in which she pronounced those words?"

"Her faith inspired him, her confidence assured him, her very weakness strengthened him. Her devotion to his memory has perhaps never been excelled among women. His name was constantly upon her lips. With justifiable pride she spoke of his virtues, the noble qualities of mind and heart and his surpassing affection manifest in every act towards her. "We do not believe that these latter years of hers have been lost years. There is a ministration that comes with pain and sorrow. There is beauty of soul, a patience, trust and gentleness that flourish amid the shadows."

Constitutional Question Up.

Guthrie, Okla., June 3.—Litigation growing out of the constitutional convention and having a direct bearing on the special election to be held for the ratification or rejection of the constitution for the state of Oklahoma will be taken up by the Oklahoma supreme court, which convenes here on June 4. Horace Speed, former United States attorney, and attorney for plaintiffs in practically all the cases against the convention, said: "I hope the court will order all of the cases taken up immediately, and from what I can ascertain all the attorneys hold a similar view."

Talk of Croker in Parliament.

London, June 3.—The newspapers are reviving the report that Richard Croker cherishes an ambition to enter the British parliament as an Irish nationalist member. It is doubtful, however, if Mr. Croker would be willing to forswear his American citizenship and more doubtful if he could find a constituency desiring to take him up as a candidate; or if the party leaders would welcome the acquisition of a politician of such a masterful nature.

WARNED BY BEETLE'S KNOCKS.

It Meant Death According to an Ancient Superstition.

A curious superstition has caused—or at any rate accelerated—the death of Mrs. Bellamy, the wife of a Huntingdonshire farmer, living at Ramsey, says the Manchester Chronicle. Hearing in the stillness of the night rattlings in an old family deed box, the woman, who had been slightly indisposed for a day or two, was terrified, as her mother-in-law had said that when a "knocking" came from the box a death in the house followed. She aroused her husband, crying, "It's knocking! You know that's the warning!" The farmer says that he then heard tapping in the box and states: "I knew what it meant; my wife was to be taken from me!" adding: "The message which the box gave brought such a dread on my wife that she took to her bed and gradually pined away." Asked if he thought the rattling brought about her end, he replied: "There is no doubt about it," and they were heard, he said, when his father died. Now it turns out that the rattlings were made by the common wood-boring insect known as the death watch beetle—a name it derives from the superstition attaching to it—which is to be found in old houses and ancient furniture. It taps with its head against the wood in signalling to its mate, and the sharp sound it makes in the silence of the night has none of the significance with which superstition has surrounded it.

CORNER STONE OF CATHEDRAL IS LAID

MAGNIFICENT EDIFICE TO BE ERECTED IN ST. PAUL.

FOUR YEARS TO BUILD

Archbishop Ireland Delivers Address—The Changes of Sixty Years—President Roosevelt Sends Message of Congratulation.

St. Paul, Minn., June 3.—The corner stone of the fourth cathedral of St. Paul, which, when completed four years hence, will probably surpass any other American church in architectural distinction and beauty, was laid Sunday afternoon. Participants in the ceremony comprised Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, Keane of Dubuque, Glennon of St. Louis, and Christie of Oregon City; the bishops of Winona, St. Cloud and Duluth, Minn.; Sioux Falls and Lead, S. D. and Fargo, N. D., all assisting Archbishop Ireland in the province of St. Paul; a score of other bishops from various states, and 200 priests. About this notable group of ecclesiastics were gathered 30,000 laymen. The ceremonies followed a review by Archbishop Ireland and his guests, at the cathedral, of the largest religious parade yet seen in the northwest.

Cathedral Will Cost $3,000,000.

The cathedral will be completed in about four years. It will cost upwards of $3,000,000, of which $700,000 has already been subscribed.

Archbishop Ireland's Address.

Archbishop Ireland said in part: "It was a day of solemn meaning, however void of outer grandeur and pomp of ceremonial, the first day of November, in the year 1841, when, for the first time, the Christian sacrifice was offered to the Most High within the territory known to-day as the city of St. Paul."

"Sixty years have rolled by—a brief term of time, as marked upon the pages of history. Meanwhile what wonders have been wrought. How marvelous the changes. St. Paul counts its people by the 200,000; its sister city, Minneapolis, speaks for 300,000 more, while within the commonwealth of Minnesota, which both adorn as its chief cities, the number is 2,000,000. The log chapel has multiplied itself into a thousand churches, around which cluster in the hundreds the prosperous homes of charity and of learning."

"To whom must go out the supreme homage of gratitude? Lord of earth and sky, Thou art the God that doest wonders, and to Thee shall be from us praise and thanksgiving. "And so we build to the Almighty God a noble temple to be to the whole land the witness of our faith, the thank offering of our piety, the expression in enduring granite and opulent marble of the deep and fervent religious throbbings of our innermost souls."

"Founded upon American soil, the cathedral lifts confidently and hopefully its walls and dome—assured that no persecuting edicts will wrest it from its sacred purpose, that no sacrilegious hand will dare loosen one single stone from its appointed place. Where is the land to-day in which the rights of religion are more safely guarded?"

"Children of holy church, thank America, and call yourselves blessed that you are citizens thereof."

President Sends Greeting.

The archbishop read this message from the president:

"White House, Washington, June 1. —Archbishop Ireland, St. Paul: In this fortunate country of ours liberty and religion are natural allies and go forward hand in hand. I congratulate all those gathered to witness the laying of the corner stone of the new cathedral of St. Paul. I congratulate those who are to worship there, and I congratulate especially you personally. (Signed) "Theodore Roosevelt."

Longshoremen Reduce Demands.

New York, June 3.—At a meeting Sunday at which were represented 19 branches of the striking longshoremen's union, demands made a month or more ago on the steamship companies were revised. The longshoremen demanded 40 cents for day work and 60 cents for night and Sunday work. Soon after the strike began a compromise was effected with the Savannah and Morgan lines on a basis of 35 cents for day work and 50 cents for night work. At Sunday's meeting it was decided to reduce the original demands made on the transatlantic lines to the figure of the compromise with the two coast lines.

Ohio Socialist Convention.

Columbus, O., June 3.—The Socialist party of Ohio at the closing session of its state convention here Sunday adopted resolutions extending sympathy to Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, officials of the Western Federation of Miners, accused of complicity in the assassination of Gov. Steunenberg, of Idaho, and denouncing President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft.

Women's Union Label League.

Richmond, Ind., June 3.—The international convention of Women's Union Label league is announced for Logansport, Ind., June 4-8. One of the interesting features will be an attempt to deprive from popularity any form of women's headgear—bonnets, "picture hats," chapeaux, "creations," even down to babies' hoods, which do not bear a union label.

THE LIKENESS ON THE CENTS

An 'Exception to the Rule' Against Portraits on American Coins.

Coins of most of the nations bear upon them the faces of their rulers. In the United States each coin has an emblem of Liberty. The first coins struck after the formation of the federal union bore the face of George Washington. Gen. Washington disapproved of the custom and it was dropped. It has never been revived. Portraits of prominent Americans appear upon postage stamps, internal revenue stamps and paper money, but never on coins. And it has been the custom to use no portraits of living men even on the currency and the stamps. But there is an exception to the rule of no portraits on American coins. The emblem of Liberty on the one cent is the goddess in an American Indian headdress, but the face shows no characteristics of the North American aborigine. It is the face of a little girl, Sarah Longacre Keen, upon whose head was placed the feathered ornament of a Sioux Indian. Her father was an engraver and he placed his daughter's head on the coin. Sarah Longacre Keen died in Philadelphia not long ago, after having served 35 years as the secretary of her city's branch of the Methodist Women's Foreign Missionary society.

IS UNLUCKY, PAPER MONEY.

Racing Men Clip Corners Off Two Dollar Notes Before Betting.

Large numbers of clipped two-dollar bills have reached the treasury department at Washington for redemption in the last three years. These bills are all cornerless. That is, all four corners have either been torn off or neatly cut off with scissors or knife. The officials who interest themselves in tracing such things quickly ascertained that a superstition of racing people lay back of the cornerless two-dollar bills. It was found that some years ago the pickers in the racing game developed an antipathy to the two-dollar notes, considering them unlucky. Their method of exorcising the devil of ill-luck clinging to the two-dollar bill was to tear or cut off the corners before putting it into play. The idea spread. It infected the bookmakers and some bookmakers who received large numbers of two-dollar bills in the course of a day's operations fell into the habit of clipping with scissors the corners of such notes as they couldn't unload upon their associates. Now it is reported that distrust of the two-dollar note is becoming general and that the cornerless notes are appearing in many different places.
